

Founders' Day, 1954

Founders, Day Event Takes Place Today

Students, faculty and alumni will celebrate the 46th birthday of the University of Omaha at 9:30 a. m. today in the auditorium with a Founders' Day program.

Morris Jacobs, general chairman of the Omaha Centennial Committee, will give the main address. Jacobs is also president of Bozell-Jacobs Advertising Agency and a former member of the Board of Regents.

President Milo Bail will serve as presiding officer for the event. Before introducing Jacobs, he will review the highlights of University history.

Each of the four morning classes today will be shortened to make room for the Founders' Day program. Classes will run according to the following schedule: 8-8:40; 8:45-9:25; 10:30-11:10 and 11:15-11:55. The invocation this morning will be given by Rev. Joseph Kennedy, pastor of First Christian Church in Omaha and part-time faculty member at the University. Music will be furnished by members of Alpha Xi Delta and Theta Chi social fraternities, winners of the All-Greek Sing last Friday.

Ellis Makes Appointments

Additional appointments on two student publications, "Gateway" and "Tomahawk," were announced Monday by Clifford L. Ellis, acting head of the journalism department.

On the Tomahawk, other than the previously announced editors are Sandra Lipari, copy editor; Bill Kratville, photo editor; Joan Willey, art editor; Dave Langevin, sports editor; and Sue Moss, sports writer. Five copy writers are Jo Ann Manger, Mardee Martin, Pat Peebles, Jeanne Vogt and Keith McMillan.

Gateway reporter assignments include Jeanne Barton, Sue Forrey, Mark Gautier, Sandra Harry, Pat Hefti, Terry Kelly and McMillan.

Other reporters are Manger, Martin, Larry Means, Moss, Peebles, Joycelyn Reifschneider, Ardie Sampson, Judy Samuelson, Elinor Tracy, James Trobough, Vogt, Wendell Walker and Larry Walker.

New business staff members are Jerry Fricke, circulation manager and George Johnston, advertising manager for the Student Directory.

Special Program To Begin Oct. 18

A special teacher education program to help relieve the teacher shortage in Council Bluffs and Omaha has been set up at the University of Omaha.

The program, which will begin October 18 is open to women and men with at least one year of college training. The classes will meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1 to 3:30 p. m. until February 11. Nine semester hours will be given for the work.

The Nebraska State Department of Public Instruction and the Iowa department will grant certificates to those who qualify. The program has been approved by both Omaha and Council Bluffs school systems.

An appeal to consider the opportunity was made by Dr. Frank Gorman, dean of the college of education at the University.

He said the program will "contribute immeasurably to the community and public schools now and in the future."

Discussion-Debate Season To Open

The discussion-debate season will begin Wednesday in an open meeting for interested students. Pi Kappa Delta, honorary speech fraternity and the speech department will sponsor the event at 3 p. m. in Room 209.

Plans will be announced and students will be told how they can participate in intercollegiate speaking activities. The national debate and discussion questions will be considered by Professors William Utley and T. C. Johnston respectively.

The first proposition concerns the implications of extending diplomatic recognition to Red China. The discussion question concerns ways for the American educational system to best meet needs of our society.

OU Panelists Plan Meeting

Miss Marian Hargrave, field director for Panel of Americans National Council, will be on campus Monday to meet with student members of the panel, prospective members and faculty advisers.

The Panel is composed of students representing different racial and religious groups who meet with various student and civic organizations to help dispell false prejudices. It originated in California just after World War II when there was a conflict with the Japanese living there.

There are 16 to 18 groups in American colleges today, including OU's permanent chapter.

Students interested in Panel of Americans' activities should contact any of the following faculty members: Miss Margaret Killian, Miss Ellen Lord, Dr. Herbert Berry, Dr. Robert Harper, Dean Jay MacGregor, Alfred Sugarman, Dr. J. D. Tyson or Dr. George Wilber.

Ex-Minister Dr. Wu Scheduled To Speak At World Institute

By Keith McMillan

Dr. K. C. Wu, ex-minister of the Chinese Nationalist government, will speak at the second meeting of the World Affairs Institute at 8:15 p. m., Wednesday. Dr. Wu's topic is "Coexistence and the Future of Asia."

In March of this year Dr. Wu was expelled from the Kuomintang cabinet for criticizing Chiang Kai-shek's police-state methods in Formosa. Since he is not now connected with the Chinese government, Dr. Wu should be able to give pertinent facts concerning the Pacific.

The first free elections in Formosa history are credited to Dr. Wu. He also succeeded in meeting the budget of the Formosan government while he was governor of the island.

Student activity cards will admit the student and one guest, and faculty members may use their identification cards for admittance.

As mayor of Shanghai, Dr. Wu dealt with labor problems and rioting. He balanced the budget of that city without subsidy from the national government.

"Dr. Wu will probably talk on what the United States can do to save Asia from communism," commented William T. Utley, head of the department of government and history and chairman of the Institute. "Since Dr. Wu is not on very good terms with Chiang Kai-shek, it should be interesting to hear what he has to say about the Pacific area."

White Awarded $200

John White, senior student at the University of Omaha, was awarded a $200 scholarship by the Omaha Advertising Club last Tuesday. White is majoring in marketing and advertising.

Eighteen Seek Office In School Election

Seventeen class representatives and one Homecoming Princess will be elected Wednesday in an all school election. Student Council members will conduct voting from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. in the west lounge. Students must have activity cards to vote, warns Don Pflasterer, assistant Dean of Students. The Registrar will not validate a student's class standing without his activity card.

Names of Homecoming princess candidates will appear on the first ballot. All students may vote for Pat Cosford, Pat Norman, Faith Stitt or Joan Willey. The princess will be revealed at the Homecoming Dance Oct. 23.

Senior students will elect candidates to three class offices. Nominees for president are John Cottrell, Mel Decker, Jerry Norene and Wayne Wagner. Vice president candidates are Janet Brace, Larry Behm, Rober Dunbler, Carol Roberts and Ted Romberg. Nominated for secretary-treasurer are Janet Johnson, Jackie Pedersen and Faith Stitt.

Junior Office Candidates

Persons nominated for president on the junior class ballot are Bob Barnes, Charles French, Darrell Githens, Eugene Poast and Dick Tannahill. Vice president candidates are Bill Barnes, Betty Ellsworth, Joann Elseffer, Pat Kavan, Leroy Klima, Mary Lenihan, Donald Munson and Bill Steck. Secretary-treasurer hopefuls are Shirley Barnum, Blanche Bell, Barbara Day, Mary Jane Jeter and Virginia Niederluecke.

Sophomore students will elect three class officers and one woman Student Council member. President candidates are Demeral Andrew, Bob Holsten, Joseph Michalik and Simon A. Simon. Choices for vice-president are Marjorie Barker, Dick Brehm, Neil Shooter, Al Thomsen and Jody White. Patsy Halverson, Marilyn Irene Jones, Margery Radek and Marilyn Stride will appear on the secretary-treasurer ballot. Student Council candidates are Jody Glissmann, Lois Profit, Judy Samuelson, Barbara Scott and Pat Vogel.

Freshmen To Elect Seven
Persons for seven offices will be elected by freshmen. Class president candidates are Tom Finley, Frank Hokenhouse, Keith McMillan, Marvin Nevins and Joseph Rigatuso. Choices for vice-president are Donna Behrens, Dick Cavanaugh, Michael Combs, Dave Lozier, Doug Postlewait, Robert Rasgorshek and Elaine Reznicek. Secretary-treasurer nominees are Shala Andrews, Patti Burns, Shirley Dack, Pat LeBarge and Joyce Wright.

Each freshman will vote on two men and two women for Student Council. Candidates are Gary Blohm, Ron Claussen, Betti Coleman, Joan Derham, Janell Fiala, James Graddy, Frank Huber, Marylin Johnson and Phyllis Kuta.

Others are Jill Moredick, Toby Okrent, Shirley Palladino, Bruce Petersen, Houghton Reed, Don Rokusek, Kent Strang, Jeanne Vogt and Janet Winslow.

Cardwell To Speak On Knowledge Show
OU's "Doors of Knowledge" program will begin its tri-weekly television series at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Football Coach Lloyd Cardwell will comment on the game using films, pictures and actual studio demonstrations.

Coach Cardwell will explain the split "T" and single wing formation and how play sequences are planned.

Others are Jill Moredick, Toby Okrent, Shirley Palladino, Bruce Petersen, Houghton Reed, Don Rokusek, Kent Strang, Jeanne Vogt and Janet Winslow.

Frosh Shine at Talent Show; Crowd Applauds Performances

By Don Diglio

A bashful baritone, Hugh Allen, grabbed the spotlight in this year's Talent Show, which presented TALENT deluxe.

From the opening curtain to the final bow the show was entertaining as well as versatile.

Classical Touch Ideal

Herb Hellwig entertained the packed auditorium with a fine singing version of "Song of the Open Road."

Three petite performers by name of Betti Coleman, Gayle Martin and Barbara Petticord did a sharp tap dance which brought whistles as well as applause.

His Own Boogie Woogie

Don Pickard pounded out some go-go-go music on the piano that he entitled his version of Boogie Woogie.

Then baritone Allen, who sang with all the poise of a seasoned veteran, sang "Without a Song." It was done exceptionally well, and he was brought back for an encore, to sing "One Alone."

The Pi Kappa Alpha's version of the Grand Old Opry served as a finale. The music was good, and the boys were funny.

Park Ames, using an 1810 Joke Book, was master of ceremonies.

Knowland Critical Of U. N. Group

By Mark Gautier

Senator William F. Knowland, (Rep., Calif.) speaking before a capacity crowd at the World Affairs Institute Wednesday night, warned that the United States "must not barter away the freedom of other nations."

Senator Knowland criticized the recent proposal of Clement Attlee that Formosa be turned over to Communist China and her government leaders sent into exile.

He compared the proposal of the British Labor Party leader and former Prime Minister of England with the actions taken by Neville Chamberlain at Munich prior to World War II when Czechoslovakia was sacrificed to appease the Germans.

"Appeasement," said the Senator, "then and now, is not the road to peace—only surrender on the installment plan." He expressed the hope that Great Britain would not be slow in "repudiating" what he termed "the Attlee Doctrine."

The Senate majority leader also criticized the United Nations organization; listing the power of veto as one imperfection. He said the automatic rotation of the chairmanship of the Security Council was "like inviting the arsonist to head the fire department." He was referring to the fact that Russia, while supplying arms and aid to aggressor forces in Korea, was taking her turn in holding the chairmanship of the U. N. Security Council.

As to the admission of Red China to the United Nations, Senator Knowland said the Far East would look on such a move as being "a tremendous victory for international Communism." He stated further that it would "break the will of Free Asia" and bring various Asian leaders to Moscow with "hat in hand."

Answering a question from the floor following his talk, the Senator expressed a personal opinion that the United States should withdraw from the United Nations if Communist China is admitted. The statement was received with applause by the audience which included constituents and candidates of both major parties.

When queried as to whether the United Nations should have intervened in Indo-China, Senator Knowland said that he felt the course followed may turn out to be "one of the greatest mistakes of history." Again he qualified this statement as being personal opinion only.

The Honorable Roman Hruska, Representative from the Second District, introduced the Senator as a "journalist, soldier, statesman and citizen." Senator Knowland was the first of six speakers scheduled to consider the "Paradox of Coexistence" problem in the World Affairs Institute this year.

Students Slated To Appear on TV

Four students will appear on the nationwide Cleve Roberts' "Streetcorner USA" program at 10:15 p. m. Sunday on WOW-TV, Channel 6. Shirley Decker, Betty Ellsworth, Eileen Fitz and Dona Wells were interviewed on the question of the Midwest's isolationism this summer at the University.

Squadrons Approve AAS Cadet Officers

National Arnold Air Society cadet officers have been approved by the 163 squadrons of the organization.

They are: Brig. Gen. Larry D. Peters, Commander; Col. James W. DuBois, Executive; Lt. Col. John Cottrell, Operations; Lt. Col. Chris R. Crowder, Adjutant Recorder and Lt. Col. Melvin D. Rousek, Comptroller.

Society Requirements

The Arnold Air Society is composed of advanced AF ROTC students who possess requirements of sufficient military aptitude, scholastic standing and leadership.

Next Headquarters At Maryland

As a result of legislation passed at last year's national Society conclave held on the OU campus, the national headquarters are to be rotated among the universities that sponsor conclaves. Next year's headquarters will be at the University of Maryland.

Also at last year's conclave the 6,000 members decided to affiliate themselves with the Air Force Association, the largest air power organization in the country.

Servicemen in 560 camps and hospitals received Red Cross services from paid staff and from volunteers during the fiscal year 1952-53.

University Band To Drill In Centennial Day Game

'Grain of Sand' Deadline Oct. 25

Deadline for contributions to the fall issue of the "Grain of Sand," student magazine published by the English department, is Monday, Oct. 25.

Students may submit poetry, short stories or essays. Not more than two contributions per student will be accepted.

The board for this edition includes Susan Bivin, chairman, Dona Wells, Donna Rasgorshek, Sam Bitner and Pat Lemmers.

Brewer Directs Choir In First Appearance

The OU choir under the direction of Richard Brewer made its first public appearance this year last Sunday at Central high school. The choir appeared as part of a program sponsored by the Omaha Council of Churches, which featured the Japanese Christian leader, Toyohiko Tagawa.

The choir presented "Alleluia," by Randall Thompson, "Beautiful Savior" and "Benedictus" by Lutkin.

A special drill will be presented by the OU band, under the direction of Robert Gaskill at tomorrow's Centennial Day game. An added attraction during half-time activities will be an Indian dance by a group of thirty Boy Scout Indian dancers. The band will form a teepee on the field as background for the dance.

Gaskill, University band director, announced openings in the band for three clarinet players. Anyone interested should contact him in Rm. 173.

Approximately 600 high school students from Nebraska and Iowa participated in the fourth annual Band Day last Saturday. Students representing Shenandoah, Underwood, Tabor, Malvern, and Council Bluffs in Iowa attended.

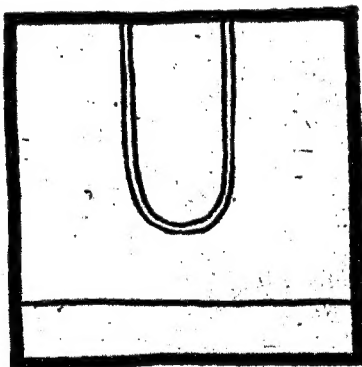

Lyons and Beemer in Nebraska sent representatives as well as Omaha Central and Technical high schools and Omaha University. The other local high schools were unable to attend because of conflicting dates.

The University served a free lunch in the Shack. Each band was introduced before the game. The combined bands played "The Star Spangled Banner" and during half-time the groups played "Loyalty March," "Colonel Miner's March" and "The Billboard March."

SEND IT IN AND MAKE $25

FIREPOLE FOR FALSE ALARMS

MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN IN TURKEY ACCOMPANIED BY VERY UGLY FRIEND

Want to pick up $25? Make up a Lucky Drooodle and send it in. It's easy.

If you want to find out just how easy it is, ask Roger Price, creator of Droodles. "Very!" Price says. Better yet, do a Drooodle yourself; like the ones shown here.

Drooodle anything you like. And send in as many as you want. If we select yours, we'll pay $25 for the right to use it, together with your name, in our advertising. We're going to print plenty—and lots that we don't print will earn $25 awards.

Draw your Droodles any size, on any piece of paper, and send them with your descriptive titles to Lucky Drooodle, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y. Be sure your name, address, college, and class are included.

While you're droodling, light up a Lucky—the cigarette that tastes better because it's made of fine tobacco . . . and "It's Toasted" to taste better.

Meet the Faculty

'Retired' President Leads Busy Life

Tucked away in a little office on the second floor of the University of Omaha sits the man who, for thirteen years, guided the University as its President. He is President Emeritus Rowland Haynes.

The small, energetic man who has spent forty-eight of his 76 years in education and social work said that his friends had a notion he would go fishing when he retired July 1, 1948, but the prexy had other ideas. "Digging worms and then fighting mosquitoes while I was waiting for the fish to bite didn't appeal to me," he said. He added that "the fishing I wanted to do was for ideas."

New College

During his administration Haynes initiated some of his ideas into the curricula. He started the two-year program for Associated Titles, set up training for war work during World War II, and saw the second college, Applied Arts and Sciences, open.

Haynes came from a town in the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts, and as boy, noticed that the youngsters used to see the business men around town, but never learned from them. This observation led to invitations to practicing business men to be part time professors in the College of Adult Education.

Eight Hour Day

Haynes still puts in a full-time day at the University. She spends most of it contacting men downtown to serve as professors in the night school either by telephone or letter.

He thanks his wife for bringing him to the University. He was all set to leave a government job in Lincoln when he received a letter from the Board of Regents inviting him to become president. "My wife, who was much smarter in those things than I, said 'Why don't you go and talk to them?' I took her advice and I'm glad of it."

Haynes . . . still fishing.

Cain Writes Manual

Harlan Cain, University Director of Auxiliary Enterprises, Director of Non-Academic Personnel, Auditor of Student Activities and now—author.

In the summer of 1953 Cain needed one credit for his business administration degree. Dean Frank Gorman of the Education College suggested a special study to get the necessary hour.

"The Manual of Student Organization Accounting Procedure" was the result. Cain's booklet points out that "being the treasurer of a student organization can be an honor, and a lot of fun."

Since a story appeared in the "College and University Business" magazine about his booklet, Cain has had requests from 56 schools in 20 states and two Hawaiian schools for copies of the treasurer's manual.

Red Face, Blue Suit

Classes and schedules are also confusing the faculty.

Lt. John Plantikow, assistant commandant of cadets, arrived for his history class in Room 207 last Friday five minutes before the bell. He walked in, sat down and began asking students around him what they thought about the course.

The common reply was, "We think it's advertising."

Letter to the Editor

Gentlemen,

When a student of your school drives a Plymouth sedan through a red light at an intersection and exceeds the speed limit on Dodge Street to get to the school on time, he is a cog in the determination of a great many taxpayers of this community to fight any increase in mill levies for your school. True, not all represent his kind, but he not only is a potential factor in the increase of traffic accidents, but a poor example of the American way of life since we, the taxpayers, are in a sense contributing to the cost of his education.

The cost of insurance on drivers under 21 has skyrocketed to four times what it was ten years ago, and this young man, whoever he may be, is one of the reasons. The car he drives is in the hands of an irresponsible person, and the sooner your student body makes up its mind to obey traffic laws, then and only then will he be counted as "one who loves his fellow man!"

I have no grievance against Omaha University, but the student body must be judged by its conduct in the outside world just as much as in the classroom, and he falls in the outside world regardless of his scholastic standing. Very truly yours,

A. Taxpayer.

In the fiscal year 1952-53, 68,000 Red Cross volunteers served members of the armed forces and veterans each month—33,000 served at military camps and hospitals; 8,000 in chapter Home Service programs; and 26,500 served patients in VA hospitals.

Monkeys, Nose Keep Student Busy

Jerry . . . nose still hurts.

"Selling insurance is much better than the monkey business I was in," according to Gerald Schleigh, 21-year-old insurance major in the College of Business Administration.

And he should know. Prior to his entering the field of business, Jerry was majoring in pre-med. As part of this training he worked with a neurosurgeon at the University of Nebraska hospital. "My job was to take care of the monkeys that were used in brain research," he recalled. "One day the doctor locked me in the monkey room accidentally and I had to smash the door down to get out. The monkeys got out of the room," he continued, "and ran loose on the animal floor. I tried bribing them with bananas, but finally had to give chase to recapture them," he concluded.

Broken Noses

Smashing the door down at the hospital reminded him of his days at Wymore, Neb., where he went to high school. Jerry played football on the school team. Playing with a broken nose, he tackled an opposing player and broke it in a different place. "I've broken my nose four times playing football," he confided. He's not too interested in athletics anymore.

Insurance Major

Financial reasons forced Jerry to drop out of pre-med training. And in search of another field of study, he turned to the Adult Testing Service at the University of Omaha. The tests showed that he had an aptitude for insurance and, after a talk with John Woods, student placement director, he switched to business administration and the field of insurance. Jerry now has a license to sell Life Insurance and Health and Accident Insurance. He feels that the practical knowledge gained in the field coupled with the technical knowledge gained in the classroom will benefit him greatly after graduation next June.

Oops!

Two bands had cancelled out. It looked as if it would rain any minute. Suddenly the telephone rang and Harvey Vogler, business manager for athletics, picked up the receiver and heard a voice say, "If it rains, will the game be inside or out?"

Notice

KWOU auditions will continue through today and tomorrow. OU radio station tryouts are held in Rm. 310, Studio A. Engineers, announcers, disc jockeys and continuity writers are still needed. Freshmen are encouraged to audition. Personnel will be trained on the job. Programs are piped to the shack and the cafeteria.

UNIVERSITY PROGRESSES IN 45 YEARS:

Old Redick Hall . . . twenty-six students and five instructors began the first OU classes here in 1909.

Redick Hall First University Building on Old Campus Site

Since its beginning in 1909, the University of Omaha has advanced on controversy. The school was born of an agitation to bring the main center of Bellevue college to Omaha. The result was a board of trustees in Omaha to establish here a non-sectarian, co-educational institution.

Before action began, Bellevue College, although having endorsed the plan, withdrew. On Oct. 8, 1908, the board was incorporated as the University of Omaha with Dr.

Daniel E. Jenkins, dean of the faculty at Presbyterian Theological seminary as president.

Classes opened Sept. 14, 1909 in the old Redick mansion at 24th and Pratt. Dr. Jenkins admitted the University "was begun without a nickel—no gifts—a pure adventure based on faith, or foolhardiness, which are sometimes spoken of as kin."

The University grew rapidly in these early years. The John Jacobs Memorial Gymnasium, a gift of Mrs. M. O. Maul and Joslyn Hall, a gift of George A. Joslyn, were the major buildings.

Contributions of such people as Dr. A. F. Jonas, Dr. Sanford Gifford and Mrs. Sarah Joslyn were set aside toward a building fund. In 1925 the library was first organized; and in 1927 the old Saratoga grade school on 24 St. and Ames Ave. was used as Science Hall.

In 1937-38 a Georgian styled University building was erected on a fifty-one acre site south Dodge St., adjacent to Elmwood Park. In 1949, the $750,000 Field House, Stadium and playing fields were completed.

OU Becomes Municipal

The citizens of Omaha voted on May 6, 1930, to establish the Municipal University of Omaha.

As part of a national trend, the state legislature in 1928 had enacted a bill permitting cities of the metropolitan class to hold a referendum on establishing municipal universities. Despite opposition, Omahans voted to sponsor a home university for students of more limited means.

Scarcely had the Board of Regents, appointed by the Board of Education under terms of the state act, begun their administration than an injunction was issued to prevent levying a tax to support the school. However, decisions of the District and State Supreme Courts allowed the new Municipal University to open January, 1931.

Athletic Action Begins in 1910

History of organized athletics at OU dates back to 1910 when the first basketball team was organized.

A step forward came in 1920 when the first Athletic Board was formed. The Board appointed a former student and athlete, Ernie Adams, as coach and head of the physical education department.

A program key-noted by progress was introduced when Virgil Yelkin took over in 1946. The following year saw the resumption of football, and a few years later, in 1949, a new Fieldhouse was completed.

Album of Alums Shows Success

Through the years the history of OU has been marked by the activities and successes of its alumni.

Chaplain Stanton W. Salisbury, '13, was a member of the first graduating class. He was Chief Chaplain when he retired from the navy.

A familiar name from the Album of Alums is that of Dr. W. H. Thompson, '17, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The president of the Board of Regents, George C. Pardee, attended the University from 1921-1923.

Dr. William L. Shearer, '21, oral and plastic surgeon, now practices in Omaha.

Roman Hruska, Republican candidate for Congress, attended the University from 1922 to 1924. He is Regents vice president.

Joe Arenas, '51, is a halfback for the San Francisco 49'ers, professional football team.

Frank Heinisch, '30, attorney and executive secretary of the Omaha Education Association, is a past president of the Alumni Association and a past member of the Board of Regents.

Jenkins Leader Among Founders

By Wendell Walker

Dr. Daniel E. Jenkins was OU's founder and first president. His idea was to have a nondenominational university based on liberal, evangelical and Christian learning to meet the need of Omaha youths who desired a higher education near home.

Prior to 1908 "Omaha University" was located in Bellevue when it was linked with the Omaha Law School, Omaha Medical and Dental College and the Omaha Presbyterian Theological Seminary.

At first there was strong agitation to move Bellevue College to Omaha. Its president, David R. Kerr, encouraged the move saying sufficient inducement would be for Omaha to raise the necessary funds.

Kerr conferred with leading Omaha men to get their viewpoints and subscriptions. But it was later deemed unwise to move Bellevue College because of legal complications.

As a result, Dr. Jenkins, professor of systematic theology and apologetics at the Omaha Theological Seminary, organized a Board of Trustees for the establishment of a new University of Omaha in the early summer of 1908.

The University of Omaha Board of Trustees had their first meeting Sept. 4, 1908, to perfect the organization. Steps were taken to incorporate Oct. 8. The articles of incorporation were filed the next day.

Signers were Dr. W. O. Henry, Dr. J. H. Vance, Dr. A. B. A. McBride, A. Lamoreaux, Dr. H. Maynard, H. J. Hughes, Dr. S. W. Stookey, O. C. Redick, Dr. D. E. Jenkins, David Cole, Hon. Howard Kennedy, W. T. Graham, John D. Ware, W. S. Gibbs and C. S. Howard.

Courses Added

When classes first opened in 1909, there was only a College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, which consisted of a College of Arts and Sciences, College of Commerce, Law School and School of Music.

The first major addition to curriculum came in 1942 when the College of Applied Arts and Sciences was initiated. The College offered degrees in engineering, journalism, home economics, business administration and education.

The newest addition is a BS and Associate degree in General Education.

Graduating Classes Small During University's Youth

Since 1913, Omaha University has grown from a total enrollment of 1,859. According to Registrar Alice Smith the 1954 totals cannot be completed until after December. The 1954 enrollment promises to top the 2,000 mark.

The University's growth can best be shown by comparing a few earlier figures: In 1923 the total enrollment was 702 students in all sessions. In the June Commencement exercises there was one Master's degree given and 18 Bachelor's degrees. This is quite a far cry from last June's forty-fifth commencement when 17 Master's degrees and 349 Bachelor's degrees were given. In 1933 the rolls show 645 students and by 1940 there were over 1,100 students enrolled for all sessions.

Following World War II there was a large jump in enrollment figures but Miss Smith says that these cannot be used in the comparison because of the vast influence of servicemen.

During the summer of 1954 there were 1,624 credit students compared to 1,450 in 1953. The total number of registrants was 1,849 which included the Children's Summer School and the Choral Workshop. Last year the figure was 1,519 including the Children's Summer School and the Piano Teacher's Workshop.

The returning Korean veterans have helped to swell the ranks but even if they are excluded the University's enrollment continues to make large strides each year.

The College of Adult Education has kept up with the day school in growth. From an enrollment of less than 1,000 in 1938 they have expanded to nearly 2,000 this year. Total figures for CAE are not yet compiled.

Crowded University-Space Becomes Critical Problem

By Pat Nolon

"Already the new University plant built for approximately a thousand students shows signs of crowded conditions." This is a quote taken from the Sept. 23, 1938, issue of the "Gateway."

"Today, when the University's enrollment doubles the 1938 figure, students and faculty are working under conditions which resemble a Dodge Street bus at 5 p. m."

A tour of the building revealed all departments facing the space problem. Girls physical education classes, which ideally would have from 25 to 30 girls each for the room in which they are held have been cut from about 44 girls each to approximately 40 in each class.

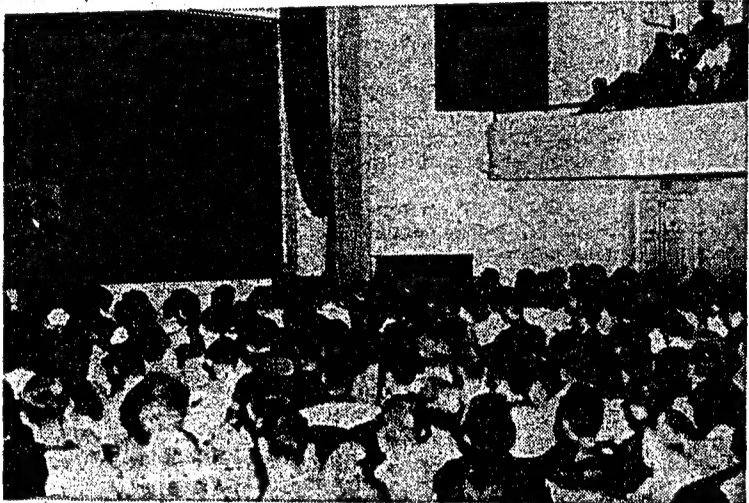

Other class rooms are as crowded with many students sitting on table tops. It is practically impossible to obtain a class room in which to hold a meeting during the busy hours from 8 a. m. to noon.

Most faculty members share offices. One instructor, who was asked if a room was storage or office space, remarked, "We wish it were an office!" In Rm. 180 four ROTC instructors share one office. A similar situation exists across the hall where seven Air Force officials share an office which accommodates four comfortably. The University's 117 professors, assistant professors and instructors fit their desks into 53 cubby holes.

Both the cafeteria and shack, where it is impossible to eat lunch comfortably during the rush, are only equipped to serve 250 people at any one time.

The Shack . . . built to accommodate 250 people, noon-time finds it packed.

Omaha Education Leader Predicts Enrollment Rise

By Jo Olsen

"The war-baby-bulge will reach college by 1964," said Fred Hill, assistant superintendent of Omaha Public Schools, Tuesday. The increased birth rate of the war years is now in the second grade. The increase accounts for approximately 2,000 children enrolled in the Omaha Public Schools.

"Under present economic conditions, about 40 per cent of these 2,000 children will go to college," added Hill. This percentage would change considerably, of course, if some sharp increase or decline hit the economy. Economic conditions greatly affect college enrollment.

College enrollment in 15 years will be about twice what it is now over the entire United States, predicted Neil H. McElroy recently. McElroy, who is president of the Proctor and Gamble Company, was named by President Eisenhower last week to be chairman of the White House Conference on Education.

Indications are that by 1965 the number of school children throughout the nation will be more than 48 million, continued McElroy. This will mean a 40 per cent increase in elementary and secondary school enrollments.

Such an increase in secondary schools and universities will demand more and better facilities. University President Milo Bail commented Tuesday that "In our complex society, more young people will feel the need for a college education, both in day and night schools." He said "we must be fully prepared to handle this influx of students."

The College of Adult Education began in 1932 as an extension division. In 1936 it became a School of Adult Education and later was incorporated as a college.

School Plans Auto Parking

Plans are on the drawing board for a three-story student parking garage.

Vice-President Charles Hoff, in charge of business management, said this week that if present plans materialize, the garage will be completed by September, 1956. However, Hoff stressed "plans are very much in the study stage."

Tentative plans show that the building will be constructed on the present Lower South Lot with the second and third floors extending over the Lower Drive.

Entrance to the lower deck will be from the same level. Cars will enter the second and third floors on ramps from the south end of the Upper Lot.

The Lower South Drive, in effect, will tunnel through the building.

Hoff estimates the building will cost approximately $390,000, having space for 300 cars.

University President Milo Bail said that the building will be financed privately, not using income from taxes or tuition.

Hoff said it will be self-serviced with students paying semester fees for assigned stalls.

The parking garage is not a part of the projected building program. Dr. Bail said it is being planned merely as a service for University students.

The parking garage went onto

New Library Gives Students and Staff More Work Space

"The old order changeth" and in the case of OU's overcrowded library, students and library staff join in saying "Thank goodness."

According to Miss Ellen Lord, head librarian, there are three main reasons for the new library.

First, in order to keep up with the latest developments in library science it is necessary to keep open stacks so that all books are out and available to students. Shelf space is so limited in our present library that books are stacked one on top of the other in piles. Over 15,000 books are in storage.

Second, under ideal conditions there should be 25 square feet of space for each student in the library. In the present library, which seats about 200 persons at one time, each student has about 12 square feet of study space.

Third, the University has large collections of books for which there is no display space. In the collection of art books are some costing $50 apiece. The new library will provide display space.

Progress in the construction of the new library can now be followed by a "Progress Schedule" which was posted this week on the bulletin board outside the General Printing and Information Office on second floor. This schedule outlines time allotted for each phase of construction and indicates progress being made.

The schedule will be brought up to date each Wednesday following the breakfast meeting of University officials with the resident engineer.

the drawing board when it was realized that parking space around future buildings would not accommodate the growing number of student drivers.

Stick to 'Ten-Year Plan'

This week the administration said the projected building program will become a reality "within the next ten or fifteen years."

The expanded campus is not only a dream, but a necessity, if the University is to meet future enrollments.

Neil H. McElroy, chairman of the White House Conference on Education, predicts that in the next fifteen years college enrollment throughout the nation will be twice what it is now. On those figures alone, OU can expect a day registration of 4,000 students. Add to this Omaha's rapid industrial growth and the increasing popularity of the University, OU can expect a better-than-average enrollment increase. This year's enrollment is 20 per cent better than last year.

When the new Library is completed next September, the classroom situation will be eased somewhat, but not nearly enough. Conversion of the present library and storage space would allow only six or eight new classrooms.

The University must keep ahead of the rising tide of enrollment, and the only way it can be done is by planning and constructing one building after the other. Between 1964 and 1969 the Center, the Applied Arts building, the Fine Arts building and the addition to the Fieldhouse must be completed to meet the enrollment needs.

1956-57 To View Building Construction

By Bill Belndorff

President Milo Bail stood at his office window in the east wing, overlooking construction on the new Library building.

"I watched them build the Fieldhouse from this window," he said, "and now I'm watching construction of the new Library." He added,

Leaders Plan Four Projects

The projected University building program calls for four main additions to the OU campus.

The Student Center is scheduled to begin near September, 1956.

The Applied Arts building will follow, with actual construction beginning sometime near 1960. A fine Arts building will come next, having facilities for art, music, languages and literature.

A two-story Tee-shaped addition to the south end of the Fieldhouse is also in the future plans. In the stem of the "T" on the ground floor, will be dressing rooms and showers. The cross bar of the "T," on the same floor, will house a rifle range on the west side and a swimming pool.

The second floor of the "T"-addition will have physical education offices at the stem and a women's gym in the cross-bar.

"and in the next ten or 15 years I plan to look out from this window to see the construction of a Student Center, an Applied Arts building, a Fine Arts building and an addition to the Fieldhouse."

And work on at least one of the buildings, Dr. Bail said, will begin in the next two years. That building will be the Student Center.

This is the first time a date has been released on construction of such a student activities building.

Although present blue prints are being revised, the Center will include facilities to feed a total of more than 1,000 people, dormitories to accommodate 160 students and a ballroom with a capacity of 250 couples.

Tentative plans call for the Center to be erected north of the Fieldhouse and just west of the new Library.

The building will cost over $1,000,000. Both Dr. Bail and Charles Hoff, vice-president in charge of business management, said a down payment of $400,000 is needed before the University can issue bonds.

The present Center fund, built up from Bookstore profits, contains approximately $100,000.

Theta Chi's 'Sweater Girl' To Be Announced Tonight

The "1954 Theta Chi Sweater Girl" will be announced tonight at the group's annual Sweater Dance. The dance will be from 9 p. m. to midnight at Peony Park.

Candidates for the title of "Sweater Girl" are Connie Gordon, Claudia Olson, Gerry Thompson and Pat Vogel.

During intermission ceremonies Emcee Jerry Norene will present the winner of this year's contest with a gift. He will also introduce the other candidates. A pledge quartet composed of Park Ames, Keith Serface, Don Rokusek and Gary Salman will then sing.

Eddy Haddad's orchestra will play. Dress for the girls will be sweaters, skirts and bobby sox. Boys will wear sweaters and slacks. Only persons wearing sweaters and presenting Greek cards will be permitted to attend the dance and vote for "Sweater Girl."

Bob Geer and Norene are co-chairmen for the dance. Norene designed the decorations which will carry out the sweater girl theme.

Orchesis Tryouts To Be Next Month

Orchesis, national modern dance group, held its first regular meeting Sept. 28 with 12 former members returning.

Members have been asked to participate in a demonstration at Benson high school Oct. 29 and in the half-time ceremonies at Omaha University's Homecoming game Oct. 23.

Tryouts for Orchesis will be held in the women's quonset hut Nov. 16 and 23 from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. One week will be used to acquaint students with the dance techniques being judged and the other will be used for final judging.

Women trying out for Orchesis must have taken at least one semester of modern dance or be enrolled in a class at present.

Regular meetings of Orchesis are in the quonset hut from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. every Tuesday.

Campus Officers To Picnic Friday

Presidents and treasurers of campus organizations will hear Harlan Cain of the business office speak tonight on methods of keeping adequate organization records.

Cain will talk following a picnic-supper for the group at the home of Charles Hoff, vice-president for business management. Hoff, who is co-sponsoring the event with Dean of Students Jay B. MacGregor, says the affair will last from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m.

One will be "Sweater Girl" . . . Connie Gordon, Claudia Olson, Gerry Thompson or Pat Vogel?

Tegtmeier Speaks at Meet

Harvey W. Tegtmeier, president of Tegtmeier Realty Company, was guest speaker at the first seasonal meeting of Sigma Rho Sigma, national real estate fraternity, Sept. 30 at Omaha University.

His talk was first of a planned series of speeches by community realtors. The speeches are planned to bring a better working knowledge of the real estate market and its problems to the real estate majors.

Topic of the discussion was "How to Sell Real Estate." Mr. Tegtmeier pointed out several factors: how to schedule your time in order to obtain the maximum results; how to use proven methods of giving top service to clients; preferred systems of negotiation between buyer and seller.

The next meeting has been tentatively set for Thursday when another realtor will speak.

Two Groups Set Meetings

Christian Fellowship

The OU Christian Fellowship organization will meet at noon Monday in Rm. 289.

Jeap Myklebust will lead the Bible discussion this week. Both students and faculty members may attend the meeting.

Press Club

The OU Press Club held its first meeting of the year Wednesday evening in the Student Publication's Office. President Betty Elsworth announced the coming semester's events and plans were discussed concerning a national journalism fraternity on the OU campus.

Alpha Xi Delta sorority and Theta Chi fraternity emerged victorious at the Sigma Phi Epsilon All-Greek Sing at Hill Haven last week.

This is the second consecutive win for the Alpha Xi's, who sang "Evening Hymn" and the contest song, "All Through the Night." "My Dear Little Girl of Theta Chi" and "Tell Me Why" were sung by Theta Chi members.

Judges were song leaders from the respective sororities and fraternities, who graded on the basis of harmony, enthusiasm and clarity.

A community sing was held preceding the contest. Following the competition, cider, apples and doughnuts were served. Records furnished music for ballroom dancing at the end of the evening.

Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brock, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Kurtz and Tom Townsend.

Angel Activities Begin; New Members Limited

Angels will begin this year's activities with both a business and social meeting.

The first flight meeting of Angels will be at 5:30 p. m. Wednesday in Room 182.

There will be no element meetings this year since the two former elements have been combined into one flight group.

In order to be considered active, all members must participate in one of the following groups: Angelettes, Colonel's Chorus, Marching Angels or on committees.

Since a new quota of 50 members has been set this year, only six women will be taken into the group this semester.

There will be one meeting per month with the Arnold Air Society.

Staff members are Donna Reynolds, Flight Leader; Darlene Buckingham, Operations Leader; Carol Roberts, Comptroller; Jo Olsen, Public Relations Officer; Betty Ellsworth, Publications Officer and Pat Norman, Adjutant-Recorder.

Angels Give Steak Fry

A steak fry for Arnold Air Society members, their wives and Angels will be given by the Angels at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in Fairmont Park, Council Bluffs.

AF ROTC staff members will be guests.

After a dinner of steak, Italian bread and salad, there will be dancing in the pavilion.

Women's PE Club Elects New Officers

Election of officers was the main order of business at the first meeting of the Physical Education Club last week.

Rita Dargatzowski was elected president of the group and Shirley Barnam was chosen vice-president. Mary Jane Jeter is program chairman and Pat Cosford is social chairman. Secretary-treasurer is Joyce Morris.

Faculty, Staff Begin Square Dancing Club

"Squares" are invading OU. In fact, there are so many "squares" roaming these hallowed halls that it is impossible to count them on both hands.

The "OU Squares" is a newly organized square dancing group composed of faculty and staff members. The first meeting of the dancing enthusiasts was held in the women's quonset hut.

Caller and teacher, Mrs. Orville W. Smith, put twenty couples through their paces to many of the familiar square dances.

The dancers will meet once every two weeks throughout the semester. All faculty and staff members and their partners are eligible to attend these dances. The group will hold their dances in the women's quonset hut. It is important that newcomers begin attending at 8 p. m. October 15.

Now that formal rushing is over, thoughts are turned to pledge duties, sings, parties, dances, campaigns, football games and of course ... studies.

Alpha Xi Delta

A mother-daughter dinner honoring all new pledges, transfer students, actives and their mothers was given Tuesday evening at Elmwood Park pavilion. The potluck dinner was sponsored by the Alpha Xi Delta Mothers' Club. Mrs. Russell Anderson, president of the Mother's Club, was in charge of the evening's activities.

Chi Omega

The Eleusinian picnic dinner was held at Elmwood Park Wednesday evening. The picnic, given by the members of Chi Omega alumnae, honored the active chapter and pledges. Following the meal, a skit was given by members of the present pledge class.

Phi Beta Chi

Phi Beta Chi announced the appointment of the new chairmen and one IFC representative at the last meeting. These appointments were made to replace former members who failed to return to school this semester.

Newly named representative to IFC is Doug Hadden. Social chairman is Jim Trobough who replaces Bill Albright.

Also named as social co-chairmen of IFC are Don Dvorak and Don Wilkie.

Publicity chairmen are Jim Trobough, Paul Conrad and Louis Sobczyk. Athletics head, also recently chosen, is Jim Bishop.

Indians To Play Bradley Saturday

By Ed Rath

Omaha University footballers will renew an old rival tomorrow when they play host to Bradley University of Peoria, Ill. The Indians last met the Bradley boys in 1942. That game saw the Braves overwhelm the Indians 46-6.

The Braves have played two games this season. They dropped Illinois State Normal 34-13 in their opener, and drew 7-7 with Western Illinois State last Saturday.

Win 1, Lose 1

Coach Steve Susic is in his second year as head football coach with the Braves. In his first year at Bradley, Susic established a record of 1 win compared to 7 losses.

The Braves will be spotting seven lettermen in their starting line up. Howard Hostettler, 190 pound fullback, was the big-ground gainer in the Norma game.

Two backs, Frank Goza and Dale Ems, picked up 80 yards on 12 and 11 carries respectively.

The Indians came out of the Washburn encounter with the usual bumps and bruises, but no serious injuries. Rudy Rotella, Frank Hahn and John Welch all had several stitches taken.

"We will have to be hitting on all cylinders to beat Bradley," Cardy exclaimed.

Cardy had special praise for Bill Steck for his fine performance against Washburn. Steck turned in two of the game's four touchdowns.

With three straight victories under their belts, the Indians have gained 961 yards and scored 99 points. The Indians' defense has allowed opponents to score 25 points.

"Wild Bill Englehardt" is leading in both passing and rushing. He has collected 451 yards rushing and 132 yards through the air.

Englehardt is also leading scorer with 27 points. Emil Radik is close behind with 21 points to his credit.

Chi Omega Leads OUWI Signing

More than 156 sports-minded women have signed up for Omaha University Women's intramurals. Chi Omega led the registration with 36 members.

Activity has already begun in bowling, golf, tennis and tumbling.

In tennis Kay Talty and Sue Moss won the doubles championship. They defeated Suzie Bengston and Mary Ann Leo, 6-4, 6-1 in the finals at Dewey Park last Sunday. Kay won the title last year with her partner, Beverly Petersen. Singles competition will be climaxed by the finals this Sunday, at Dewey Park.

Bowling competition also got under way with two teams from each organization bowling Monday night at Forty Bowl.

The OUWI golf tournament has also started with nine entries.

Mural Action Starts Today

Weather permitting, active participation in the intramural football league will begin today, according to Intramural Supervisor, Ralph Pettit.

The league will be a round-robin tournament with two games daily. Eight teams are scheduled to play in the tournament. Sig Ep will be the defending champions.

Two different practice fields will be used by intramural teams. The field south of the varsity practice field will be one site, while the lot just west of the parking area, behind the fieldhouse, will be the other.

Teams and their managers are ROTC, Larry Means, Pawnees, Hoot Gibson; Pi Beta Chi, Douglas Hadden; Theta Chi, Bill Petrick; Lambda Chi, Bill Feddersen; ISA, Jim Sorenson; Pi KA, Dave Langevin; Sig Ep, "Bear" Anderson.

Pettit stated the intramural league does not have enough officials. Boys interested in officiating games should get in contact with Ralph Pettit or Ernie Gorr as soon as possible.

If there is a lack of officials each intramural team will be required to furnish an official.

The intramural bowling league will begin Oct. 14. Teams interested should file their entries with the intramural department as soon as possible.

Steck Scores Twice In Indian Victory

Omaha University gridgers celebrated the opening of the home season Saturday afternoon by slapping Washburn 27-6.

Omaha U scored four touchdowns against the Ichabods, two being chalked up by Bill Steck.

The second of Steck's tallies, in the third quarter, was the game's most sensational. The OU back intercepted a Kansan pass deep in Indian territory, then sprinted 78 yards to score. Steck's other score came when Bill Englehardt hit him with a pass in the end zone.

Howard Baker's blocking of a Washburn punt paved the way for the second Indian touchdown. The ball was recovered by Marv Nevins on the Ichabod four. Englehardt then heaved the ball to Rudy Rotella for the score.

Bill Englehardt's passing arm netted the Indians their third tally of the second quarter when he connected with Ken Conrad in the end zone.

A three-yard run by Don Stroud early in the third quarter gave the Ichabod's their only score.

The Indians scored five first downs, compared to nine by the losers. Cardwell's boys committed six fumbles, recovering three. They completed six of the twenty passes attempted.

Thirty men saw service in the victory over the Ichabods. Blocking back Arnie Smith, nursing an injured knee, watched play from the sidelines for the second week.
